Letter from the President

In 2017, there were 250 working days and this year there will be 251 working days. That means we all have an extra day to make things happen in 2018. Let's use it to our advantage. While we are thinking about how we can make that extra work day be in our favor, have a cup of soup – perhaps a clam chowder or a nice homemade vegetable – for this is National Soup Month!

Last year was a very good year for your Chamber. And we saw many new faces at events. The Board of Directors invites everyone to become involved this year to make 2018 surpass last year. There are activities every month to choose from; from lunches or dinners, business afterhours and special events and Lagers & Leaders. Let's see you this year using that one extra day of work at a Chamber event.

Once again, happy new year to you and your families. I trust it will be a prosperous and fulfilling new year not only for your business, but personally as well.

John Binneboese, Itasca Bank & Trust Co.

Members in the News

Tom Looze from Baird & Warner Realtors invites you for a seminar/discussion about “the new tax law and how it affects homeowners”. The event will be held on Saturday, January 27, 2018 from 2:00 pm to 4:00 pm at the Roselle Park District building located at 10 N. Roselle Road in Roselle.

Earlier this month, a mother and daughter -- both avid dancers -- were reunited in the studio at Lights, Camera, Dancin’ in Roselle. Nahomi Castillo, 13, knows how to keep her emotions in check both in and out of the studio. Castillo’s mother, Army Staff Sgt. Carrie Castillo, has been overseas serving in an Army Special Operations unit in Kuwait for the last six months. In a move one might call the soldier surprise, the discipline of the dance studio gave way to the emotion of a once in a lifetime surprise. Carrie returned home two months early and popped in on practice with plans to make it to the next dance recital.

Do you have news about your business that you want to share with Chamber members? Space is limited and will be available on a first-come first-serve basis. Submissions for consideration are due by the 20th of the month prior to publication (e.g., by January 20th for the February issue). Contact Gail Croson at the Chamber office to be a part of “Member News”.

The Roselle Police Department is now accepting applications for its 2018 Citizen Police Academy. The 11-week program is scheduled to begin on March 15, and will meet on Thursday nights from 6:30 pm to 9:30 pm through the end of May.

14 Ways to Work a Room

Whether it's a business meeting or a social event, you're always interacting with prospects. Knowing how to meet people, make a good impression, and maneuver yourself gracefully in any situation will help you succeed. These tips will let you better work any room you enter.

1. Set your goal for any event before you arrive. What do you want to accomplish? Maybe it's to meet five new people.

Maybe it's to set three follow-up meetings. Whatever the outcome you want to achieve from the event, use your time judiciously to achieve the goal.

2. Walk in and shake hands with confidence. If you start with a positive attitude and a confident posture, people will be drawn to you. Offer a strong handshake with thumbs locked; don't grab fingertips or knuckles. Look the person in the eyes. Say your name slowly.
3. Eat first. Don't try to eat, drink, and mingle all at once.
4. Be ready to greet. Keep your drink in your left hand so that you're always ready to shake hands with your right hand and greet people.
5. Start conversations. Say hello, introduce yourself, and ask people how they're associated with the event and why they're attending. Be authentic.
6. Get the name. When you meet people, make sure you catch their name, and use it in conversation. It's a sign of respect. Be sure to call people by the name they've given you, for example, Mrs. Jones, Charles, or Mary Louise.
7. Keep the conversation going. To avoid uncomfortable pauses, use this formula: 1) Ask a question of the person you're talking to; 2) make a statement about yourself; and then 3) ask another question. Try to strike a balance between asking questions and making statements so that you avoid a third-degree interrogation or talking too much about yourself.
8. Repeat what you've heard. Using phrases such as "When you said a moment ago that" or "You mentioned that" proves you were paying attention.
9. Don't let your eyes or thoughts stray. There's nothing worse than scanning the room and not looking at the person you're talking with.
10. Exit a conversation gracefully. At business and social events, one of the biggest fears is getting stuck in a conversation. When you feel the interaction should end, say, "It was great talking to you. I hope you enjoy the rest of the evening."
11. Make a request. If your goal is to establish a relationship that will eventually turn into a deal or a referral, you need to have a reason to reconnect. Before leaving the conversation, clue people in to expect the follow-up. Say, "Can I e-mail you so that we can get together to share those great Web sites?"
12. Don't be touchy-feely. Hugging and kissing don't belong in a business or networking situation.
13. Leave just one card. When you give people your business card, don't supply multiple cards for them to hand out to their friends. One card is personal and says, "This is for you."
14. Exit the event with grace. When leaving an event, allow 15 minutes to say good-bye to people you met. Don't just make a dash for the door.
